6 BODY LANGUAGE MISTAKES TO AVOID

You've probably heard how important body language is. Body language includes all the things that are being said from your posture to the way you play with your hair in the midst of a conversation. Here are some of the most common mistakes that people make:

- NO EYE CONTACT
When you are looking everywhere but at the person in the eye, it makes them think you can't be trusted and that you are hiding something back. Make good eye contact to build trust and show you are engaged and interested.
- ARM CROSSING
Keep tabs on what you do with your arms. If you have them crossed, it makes you look defensive and closed off, or that you are disregarding what they are saying. Open your arms so that you appear to be inviting.
- DRESSING MESSY
There is cool, stylish and there is, well, just plain sloppy. If you look sloppy, it will come across that you are unprofessional and just don't care. It may also be an indicator of the way you do business. But if you are stylish and well put together, on the other hand, it shows that you are current and caring.
- LOOKING AT YOUR SMARTPHONE
If you are looking at your PDA when someone is talking to you, it's a clear signal that you are not interested in what they are saying. It's also a sign of pure arrogance. Turn the PDA off and put it out of site.
- EYE ROLLING
You have to know that every word coming out of your mouth, no matter how sincere it may sound, will be instantly defeated with even a half a second rolling of the eyes. Save the eye rolling for when you are back in your car or office and out of sight.
- CLOCK WATCHING
Whether it is looking at your watch or checking the time on the wall, it says to the other person that you have something more important than what they are saying. It will make the other person feel rushed as well. Forget the time and focus on the meeting at hand.
